INTRODUCTORY

IN PRESENTING this volume of the CITY DIRECTORY, it is but fitting that we should offer some remarks, regarding the same. The contents of this work are the results of several months of labor by experts in name taking, using every precaution and search to get the names, correct addresses, etc.

Allow us to make the following suggestion: First, as to the similarity of names which, in sound, are the same, but often spelled very differently. For illustration, the name Read is spelled R-e-a-d, R-e-i-d, R-e-e-d, R-e-a-d-e, R-e-i-d-e, etc. In looking for names, use judgment in the search and ascertain whether it may not be spelled differently from your idea of it, and go through the list making sure if the name you are looking for is given. We have known people looking for "Smith" throw down the book in disgust when, on investigation, the name sought for proved to be S-m-y-t-h-e.

A complete directory is never the result of a single canvass, and is obtained only by a liberal expenditure of both time and money, utilizing the information obtained through previous issues and a continual collection of data. Directory publishing is a vocation peculiar to itself, and is carried on properly only by those experienced in and thoroughly conversant with its many intricate details.

In conclusion, we desire to thank our many patrons for the generous support they have given us, and trust that the result of our efforts will meet with their approval and appreciation. We have used every precaution to issue a valuable and accurate work. While errors may be found, such, however, are unavoidable in a work of this kind.

MADISON INDIANA

A FUTURE GREAT

Madison was once the principal business point in Indiana and the largest city of the Hoosier state. Its bar was the strongest, its medical corps the most learned and its merchants and manufacturers the most enterprising and energetic.

It was the victor in several contests for commercial supremacy in the early days.

It secured one terminal of the Michigan road, a highway 100 feet wide, constructed from Lake Michigan to the Ohio River by the state government.

It built the first marine railway in Indiana and long had the greatest ship yards on the Ohio River.

It secured the southern terminal of the first railroad built in the West—the Madison and Indianapolis railroad, constructed by the state of Indiana.

It was a rival for some years of Cincinnati and Louisville and far out-ranked any other city in Indiana.

When the capital of the state of Indiana was laid out a Madison man was on the commission to locate the new city and gave it its name—Indianapolis, the City of Indiana.

Madison, the City 'neath the Hills, was difficult and costly to reach by rail and the roads were built north and south of it. ~~Lines~~ cut off the wholesale trade of Madison very largely. The war the railroads made upon the steamboats and the want of a dependable channel the year round in the Ohio river was a second body blow to the thriving city and checked its growth.

But now all these misfortunes are fast being rectified. The hills, which kept out the railroads, are covered with federal and state highways, up and down which automobiles and trucks scamper with ease. Freight from distant points is brought more cheaply than by railroads, and tourists pour into the city and Clifty park.

The state conservation commission, as soon as the park is fully opened to guests, expect 100,000 tourists a year there. The Pennsylvania railroad will extend its tracks from North Madison to Clifty park and thousands of people from Cincinnati, Louisville and Indianapolis will pour into the beautiful resort upon frequent excursion trains.

The completion of the lock and dam system of the U. S. government from Pittsburg, Penn., to Cairo, Ill., is now approaching. Two thirds of the locks and dams are in operation. The remainder will be finished within a few years. This will insure nine feet of water in the channel the year round. Thirty million dollars have been expended for steamboats and barges during the last three years—showing the increase in commerce.

Madison is going to be benefitted by the dependable channel more than any city in the Ohio valley because of its difficulty in getting railroads. With the Pennsylvania system reinforced by new boat lines, autos and airplanes all transportation problems will be solved.

Madison is the largest tobacco center in Indiana, the largest lumber market, and an important point for manufacturing of various descriptions. It is the Mecca of all tourists in Indiana, Ohio and Kentucky because of its rare and lovely scenery and is becoming known all over the world in this respect.

The enumeration for this directory shows a population of over 10,000 people—a gain of several thousand over the last census. This count is sustained by the fact that there are no empty houses in Madison. All are filled with happy and prosperous people.

Come to Madison and watch us grow!

CITY DIRECTORY

Fractions after numbers indicate the floor— $\frac{1}{2}$ the second, 1-3 the third, etc.
The word street is always understood.
To find a name you must know how to spell it.
There being no rule for spelling proper names, we would suggest that you look for it under several headings.
A directory is simply to give a person's name and address. The occupation

Name in Parentheses () is wife's name
The street directory is arranged alphabetically by numbers. It shows the number of each building and the name of the firm or the head of the family residing therein.

Names appearing in CAPITALS are patrons of this directory.
